Our Strategic Priorities:

In the fall of 2016, and again in the Spring of 2017, our Strategic Planning Committee met to revise our plan. In so doing, our committee reaffirmed our three Strategic Priorities. Our Strategic Priorities for 2017-2018 remain:

- 1.) Provide outstanding learning experiences for students and staff so that our students are critical and creative thinkers, effective communicators and productive collaborators.
- 2.) Enhance communication and encourage engagement with all of the district's stakeholder groups
- 3.) Continue to be sensitive to the financial constraints of our tax base

Our Mission: (updated 2004)

The mission of the Hamburg Central School District is to provide, through a framework of excellence and partnerships between a committed staff and an informed, supportive community, a learning experience that produces literate, adaptable, responsible citizens who have positive attitudes, abilities to think analytically and creatively, manage personal resources, apply technologies, relate to the global community and appreciate the contributions of diverse cultures.

Our Core Beliefs: (updated 2004)

- Excellence through achievement of high standards should be the focus of all efforts.
- All students can and will be successful with challenging academic experiences.
- Schools must hold high expectations for all students and promote achievement at levels of distinction.
- Every student must be taught by teachers who have a sound knowledge of subject matter and also hold high expectations for themselves as well as their students.
- Schools must cultivate safe and positive learning environments.

Strategic Plan Overview

Our continuous strategic planning cycle assures that we are planning collaboratively, executing our initiatives thoughtfully and assessing the impact of our initiatives on learning. It also assures that we effectively integrate existing programs with new ones, blend the latest technology with best instructional practice and incorporate our newly hired employees into our culture of excellence. Executing this plan effectively will result in organizational coherence (Fullan, 2016) among our people and throughout the Hamburg Central Schools.

The purpose of our Strategic Plan is to clearly outline our priorities in a way that focuses the necessary resources and energy on our Strategic Priorities. Our plan coordinates the efforts of each of our colleagues with one another, and most importantly, with our mission. We are thankful that we can count on our entire staff to approach the work of this plan with a focus on the learning of each child that honors the culture of our schools and of our community.

On October 26, 2016, and again on March 27, 2017, a group of approximately 50 stakeholders in our school district, comprising teachers, support staff, board members, parents, business leaders and administrators participated in a wide range of interactive and facilitated activities designed to help us converge around strategic priorities that can help us improve the learning experience for our students. During these meetings we determined that:

- For 2017-2018, our three Strategic Priorities will remain the same, because there is still work to be done before these priority areas can be considered fully addressed.
- Since 2015, we have taken steps to address nearly every action step by implementing best instructional practice, sharpening our respective crafts through high-quality professional learning, deploying new technology in our classrooms, hiring new staff and managing our financial footprint to provide outstanding taxpayer value.
- We must grow organizationally in our capacity to provide our students with the opportunity to engage in modern learning to develop 21st Century knowledge and skills.

Strategic Priority One 2017-18

Educational Opportunities

Provide outstanding learning experiences for students and for staff so that each of our students can demonstrate that she/he is a critical and creative thinker, an effective communicator and productive collaborator.

This is the bedrock of the Hamburg Central School District, and gets to the heart of our moral imperative to provide students with a great learning experience each day through excellence in teaching and leadership. Our emphasis on requiring students to demonstrate their 21st Century Skills; critical and creative thinking, effective communication and productive collaboration, means that our students must be required to make their learning visible. Doing so provides teachers and administrators with real-time actionable data about what students know and can do. When students are required to make their learning visible, they are required to be more engaged with their learning and to participate in more dialogue with their classmates about their learning. Our teachers have stated that when they emphasize the student voice in their classrooms, the result is a more enjoyable learning experience for students and for teachers.

Another benefit of “making learning visible” is that it keeps the focus on what we expect our students to learn, while we also thoughtfully consider how we expect them to learn it. Our five Action Steps and the menu of related resources are all designed to support teachers with research-based best practices in their efforts to effectively address what they want students to learn and how they want them to learn it. This constant focus on both the “what” and the “how” of learning helps create the conditions for outstanding learning in our classrooms. We will encourage healthy dialogue among teachers and administrators around meaningful data, promote more frequent teacher collaboration, continue to provide our staff with high quality professional development and use our instructional technology to open new doors to the world for every learner.

Finally, it is important to note that none of the five action steps in this Strategic Priority Area is designed to be taken by people working in isolation. The most powerful resource we have in the Hamburg Central School District is our people. The positive impact of that resource on the learning of our students is magnified exponentially when the adults approach our work together as colleagues.

Strategic Priority Two 2017-18

Communication

Enhance communication and encourage engagement with all of the district's stakeholder groups

The Hamburg Central School District, through the office of the Superintendent and the office of Community Relations, will communicate with its stakeholders with honesty and consistency, and with one clear voice. We will do so using an array of methods that reflect the diverse needs and interests of our community. A communications plan is a necessary planning function, not unlike the planning that occurs around budget or curriculum. When planned and executed effectively, well-coordinated district communications will allow us to build a brand that wins community support for our programs, initiatives, budgets and capital projects.

Since 2015-2016, our external media strategy has resulted in an overall media footprint that is significantly reduced, and the coverage we did receive in the media was much more focused on the positive elements of our School District. For example, 91% of the media coverage in 2015-2016 highlighted the ways in which we are helping young people learn through excellence in teaching and leadership. The positive media coverage continued in 2016-17.

A particular area of focus this year will be on our internal communications. The data from our two Strategic Planning Committee meetings clearly demonstrated that we need to use a high quality method of regularly communicating the many important news items, innovations and accomplishments that occur throughout our school district. Our Action Steps are centered around using a wider array of communication technology to be more frequently in touch with staff and families, so that we all feel connected to one another in our efforts to help students learn. For example, The Bulldog Bulletin will be used to highlight the great things happening in each of our schools each month.

Finally, we will continue to carefully manage our media profile through our external communication strategy.

Strategic Priority Three 2017-18

Financial Planning

Continue to be sensitive to the financial constraints of our tax base

The Hamburg Central School District remains committed to assuring that every student has a great learning experience each day through excellence in teaching and leadership. The proposed 2017-2018 budget supports our commitment by adding positions in multiple key areas of need, while also reducing the financial burden to taxpayers for the second consecutive year. Strategic Priority Area #3 helps assure that we focus on two critical Action Steps for 2018-2019 and beyond.

First, we want to make sure that our budget decisions reflect the Strategic Priorities that have been identified by our stakeholders through our continuous strategic planning cycle. This process assures that we allocate our resources so that we are able to effectively integrate existing programs with new ones, blend the latest technology with best instructional practice and incorporate our newly hired employees into our culture of excellence created by our colleagues throughout our school district who have contributed to it.

Second, it is important that we carefully analyze our use of space. Over the next few years, we intend to bring stakeholders together to engage in dialogue about how our spaces are currently designed and used, and think about how they'll need to change so that they can be used to more effectively support the modern learning that our students will need in the world in which they live in the decades to come.
